Making the switch from Player to Coach

• Growing both your leadership abilities and management skills is critical for your success.

• Many excellent fundraisers come into management roles without any formal training in either leadership or management...and often aren’t sure how best to grow these skills.

• In this session we’ll discuss the differences between ‘leading’ and ‘managing’, and share practical tools and approaches to help you grow these skills.
Management vs Leadership: What’s the Difference?
Leadership vs Management
...according to experts

• “Management is doing things right; leadership is doing the right things.” ~ Peter Drucker

• “The conventional definition of management is getting work done through people, but real management is developing people through work.” ~ Agha Hasan Abedi

• “Management is, above all, a practice where art, science, and craft meet.” ~ Henry Mitzberg

Exploring the concept of Management
What is Management?

Set of behaviours which ensure the right things get done

• Management in all business and organizational activities is the act of getting people together to accomplish desired goals and objectives using available resources efficiently and effectively.

• Management comprises: planning, organizing, staffing, leading or directing, and controlling an organization or effort for the purpose of accomplishing a goal.

• Since organizations can be viewed as systems, management can also be defined as human action, including design, to facilitate the production of useful outcomes from a system.
  - This view opens the opportunity to 'manage' oneself, a pre-requisite to attempting to manage others.
What is Management?

How do people learn to become managers?

Combination of knowledge + practical experience

• University courses (continuing education or degree)
  – Overall management programs
  – Courses in specific management competency areas
• Community College programs
• Workshops (community groups, professional orgs)
• Books, articles, magazines, blogs, pod casts
  – Any favourites?

Leadership Myths

- Leaders are born, not made
- True leaders are charismatic extroverts
- Leadership depends on your position/title
- Leaders are always “on”
- Leadership is about being liked
- Leadership is a scheduled event
- Others....?
Your Career is a Journey

Designing your Personal Management Growth Plan

- In which of the core management competencies do you have a strong knowledge base?
- In which do you have strong practical experience?
- In which areas do you have ‘gaps’ in knowledge or experience?
- How do you best learn? (consider for each area)
- Where can you look for info or learning opps?
- How can you gain practical experience?

What is your plan to gain practical Management experience?

Some ideas include:

• Volunteering to serve on or lead a project
• Asking your manager to help you learn
• Taking on a temporary growth opportunity
  – Temporary parental leave contract
  – Take on part of someone’s duties for a period of time
• Taking a lateral move into a different area
• Set up an internal exchange / buddy up in your org
• Volunteering for a charitable organization
• Other ideas?
Mentors & Role Models

• What kind of manager do you want to be?
• Look at management role models from your past or current positions
• Who are your ‘go to’ people when you get in sticky situations?
• How do you identify and find mentors?
• Formal vs Informal mentors
• Modelling behaviour for others
Food for thought:

Common Management Mistakes

1. Not transitioning from worker to manager, from friend to boss
2. Lack of clear goals and expectations...for yourself and for others
3. Failing to delegate...
4. Failing to follow up when you do delegate
5. Failing to communicate...with your boss, with your team
6. Not making time for employees
7. Not recognizing employee success...or taking credit for it
8. Failing to learn from your mistakes...or theirs, which are actually yours, since they work for you...
9. Resisting change...there is more than one ‘right’ idea
10. Going for the quick fix over the lasting solution
11. Failing to understand that your ‘first team’ is the organization
12. Not seeing your peers as your support team and partners...it is not a competition between departments
Designing your Personal Leadership Growth Plan

- How can you show leadership in your current role and position in the organization?
- Assess your emotional and social intelligence
  - In which areas are you stronger? Weaker?
- Consider working with a leadership coach when you take on a big leadership role, or when you are struggling
- Consider your communication style and skills
  - Consider Toastmasters or other development
Demonstrating Leadership regardless of your position

- Deliver superior performance, consistently
- Display a positive attitude, always
- Be an exceptional team player and ‘follower’
- Volunteer to lead projects and join initiatives
- Become a well-rounded generalist
- Own your failures/mistakes...and learn from them
- Think strategically, and see the big picture at every turn
- Watch others, assess, listen, learn
- Be incredibly self aware
Worth thinking about.

- How we see ourselves is not always how others see us...and in the workplace their views matter more
- Be brutally honest with yourself about what you’re great at, and what you need to work on
- Temper your ambition with patience
  - If your supervisor doesn’t think you’re ready, but you do...that is a good time to ask WHY, and listen carefully to the answer
- Take responsibility for your own growth & learning
  - Our employers are our partners in this journey, because it’s in their best interests...but....
  - If your employer cannot or will not invest in you, then invest in yourself!
